HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1886.

IT has been an interesting question for some time, whether the unusual influx of serious crime which has lately set in here owes its origin to any special cause. The during attacks which have recently been made upon females in broad daylight and in the open roadway, suggest that an element other than the generallyaccepted everyday thief and robber has of late been claiming the attention of the Police. Attacks in broad daylight have always marked the worst periods of lawlessness in this Colony; and we have a strong suspicion that these violent crimes are frequently committed, Ajaz. British steamer, 1,569, J. We are informed upon unquestionable authority that an extraordinary war of extermination has been and is being carried on, by leading mandarins in many of the districts of Kwangtung province, against the criminal and suspected classes. Person in China considered to be dangerous to the peace of the district are not, as here, bound over by a recognisance of $50, or recommended for comfortable quarters in prison, or placed among the candidates for simple deportation. They are, or have lately been, summarily beheaded; and perhaps the excuse to be offered later on by those concerned in the piece of international courtesy known as Oo Afung's premature decapitation. This, however, by Per Elsa, from Amoy, Capt.
